

ELIHU ROOT NOW SECRETARY OF WAR

Assumed the Duties This Morning

OATH OF OFFICE ADMINISTERED BY JUSTICE COLE.

At the Conclusion of the Ceremony the Retiring Officer Took His Successor By the Hand and Congratulated Him and the Country—Alger and Miles Brought Face to Face—Meeting Very Cool and After Introduction of Latter, They Turn Their Backs on Each Other.

Washington, Aug. 1.—[Special]—Elihu Root assumed the duties of the office of secretary of war at eleven o'clock this morning.

The oath of office was administered by Justice Cole, of the Supreme court of the District of Columbia.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, Ex-Secretary Alger took Mr. Root's hand and congratulated him and the country.

The oath was conferred before the appointed time and Gen. Miles and staff did not arrive until it was all over.

When he walked in to be presented, he met Alger face to face. They shook hands cordially and Alger then presented the coming general to Mr. Root. When this was over, Miles and the retiring secretary turned their backs on each other.

Secretary Root showed Miles evident favor after the introduction, conversing with him in a hearty manner.

Alger Leaves For Detroit

ALGER DEFENDS OFFICIAL ACTS.
Retiring Secretary Answers Charges Made by His Enemies.

One of the last official acts of Secretary Alger was to prepare a statement covering matters regarding the conduct of the war. In this he says: "At the commencement of the war with Spain and for several years prior to that time the regular army consisted of only 25,000 men, with the minimum number of officers prescribed by law. The situation can be partially appreciated when it is remembered that within sixty days from the declaration of war the strength of the army was increased to 275,000, and everything for the equipment of this great force, including clothing, tents, transportation, medical supplies, camps and camp equipment and all that pertains to equipping an army for service had to be manufactured, transported and distributed for use.

"From statements made in partisan newspapers the public might be made to believe that the volunteer army was officered by men selected through political influence with the secretary of war by special favor and without any regard to fitness for the duties they were to perform. As is well known, the volunteer force, with the exception of three regiments of engineers, three regiments of cavalry and ten regiments of immune infantry, was made up of regiments from the various states, the officers of which were all appointed exclusively by the governors of the respective states from which the regiments came, and any officer found unfit for service and discharged was replaced by another in the same manner. The president had no voice or control in the matter.

"For a little over 1,000 appointments made by the president the number of applications was over 25,000, and each application was accompanied by a certificate of his ability, and in most instances the military service, either in the regular army or a state organization, and not infrequently in both. Three certificates showed that each one was as well qualified for the position he sought and to which he was appointed as could be possible for men in civil life in this country.

"It has been stated and repeated many times that the secretary of war made appointments, when the truth is that very few were made upon his recommendation, although he caused the entire list, with the recommendations, to be compiled and placed before the president for his selection. I would be only too glad to have had the honor to have made these appointments. No better, no more loyal or more patriotic set of men as a whole ever served their country, and their appointments were a credit not only to the appointing power but to the country they served. There were exceptions, but that could not have been foreseen. In every walk of life men are found who cannot carry out satisfactorily the work they have undertaken.

"Criticism as to the amounts and methods of expenditures which could imply the wrong or careless use of money were also made. This charge is false. So far as the conduct of the service was concerned, no person with any knowledge of the facts can ever charge truthfully, and no one can ever show that a dollar was misappropriated, stolen or embezzled out of the hundreds of millions of dollars that were expended. The records are an open book, and I will be glad to have them rigidly examined, and ask my successor to open those accounts to the country whenever properly called for, in order that the entire truth may be known.

R. A. ALGER,
"Secretary of War."
"Washington, July 31, 1899."

FORECAST OF WEATHER

Chicago, Aug. 1.—[Special]—Forecast for Wisconsin: Showers and thunderstorms tonight and Wednesday.

Shoots Into a Crowd of Boys.

Evansville, Ind., Aug. 1.—Only the presence of twenty-five policemen and ten deputies averted bloodshed at the John Ingle coal mine, below the city, Monday afternoon. As the non-union diggers came from work they were met by a crowd of small boys, who threw stones and clubs at them. One of the miners drew a revolver and shot into the crowd, but no one was hurt. The police rushed in and prevented the miners from firing any more shots. Capt. Ingle has begun the erection of houses near his mines, where his men will sleep under guards.

SOLDIERS WELCOMED AT SAN FRANCISCO

NEBRASKA AND UTAH VOLUNTEERS LAND AT THAT PORT.

City Suspends Business to Receive Them—Inhabitants Gather in Streets to Cheer Them—Ambulances Containing the Wounded Received With Honors By the Crowd.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 1.—The Nebraska volunteers and the Utah battery once more set foot on native soil Monday. The troops landed on Folsom street dock from the transports Hancock. They formed in heavy marching order, with blankets, knapsacks, canteens and tents strapped to their backs, and carrying rifles whose steady fire, accompanied by cheers of men, brought terror first to the Spaniards at Manila, and thirty-two times to Filipinos who fled before the Nebraskans in as many battles.

When order to march was given cannons whistles and sirens throughout the city raised a deafening tumult. This was the agreed signal for the merchants throughout the city to suspend business until the volunteers had passed the review before Gen. Shafter and staff and Gov. Poynter and staff of Nebraska.

A conservative estimate places the number of people who gathered from the dock to Union streets at 150,000. San Francisco never grew so wildly enthusiastic as it did Monday. The citizens remembered the beautiful silk flag that waved so proudly in the breeze the day the Nebraskans marched to the dock to embark for Manila. Then it was unspotted and untorn. Monday it was again at the head of the regiment, and the proudest man in all the parade was the color sergeant who carried it. Its appearance electrified the crowd. Only the starry-blue shield and a few tattered ribbons of stripes remained, but the story it told thrilled the multitude with patriotic emotions. Thousands cheered again and again; eyes of thousands more were dimmed by tears. San Francisco is making great preparations to receive the California volunteers, but it is doubtful if the reception will be any more thrilling than that given to the Nebraskans.

At the rear of the procession came eight ambulances filled with sick and wounded. The emotions aroused in the great crowd by these heroes were even more touching than those caused by the blood-stained and tattered flag. Among the sick were many who had fallen victims of consumption. Upon all was the stamp of hardship and suffering.

During the march a number of poor fellows who had miscalculated their strength were forced to drop out and wait for ambulances, into which they climbed or were lifted. Several of the companies marched without their commanders, who were among the sick or wounded in the ambulances. The companies marched with the precision of veterans. Even when the enthusiasm was at its height the Nebraskans marched steadily on, seemingly unaffected by the splendid welcome that was their portion.

REGIMENTS FILLING UP FAST.

Thirtieth and Thirty-first Have Already Recruited Their Quota.

Washington, Aug. 1.—Col. Pettit's regiment, the Thirty-first United States volunteer infantry, has been recruited to its maximum strength. It had enlisted 1,808 men up to Saturday night, just one short of the full number. Men hereafter enlisted in its territory—which includes Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky—will be assigned to other regiments.

Col. Gardner's regiment at Fort Sheridan, the Thirtieth, secured sixty-eight recruits Saturday, bringing its strength up to 1,078. The strength of the other regiments was: Twenty-Sixth, 901; Twenty-Seventh, 1,179; Twenty-Eighth, 881; Twenty-Ninth, 881; Thirty-Second, 808; Thirty-Third, 283; Thirty-Fourth, 441; Thirty-Fifth, 131.

The recruits for the Philippine regiments numbered 189. The enlistments Saturday aggregated 546, and the total enlistments were 7,838—very nearly six full regiments.

Washington, Aug. 1.—Gen. Otis' report to the war department of the efforts of the Filipinos to retake Calamba, chronicled in the news dispatches, follows: "Manila, Adjutant General, Washington: Insurgents in considerable force, appeared in the vicinity of Calamba yesterday; were punished and driven off by Hall. Our casualties, one killed, seven wounded. Capt. Simpson, Sixth infantry, struck robber band of negroes the 28th inst., killing nineteen. No casualties.

More volunteers are on the way to San Francisco from Manila, according to this dispatch from Gen. Otis: "Manila, July 30.—Adjutant General, Washington: North Dakota, Wyoming and Idaho's on transport Grant, ready to depart. Desire to delay until tomorrow, to receive monthly pay. Permitted. OTIS."

SERIOUSLY INJURED IN ROW AT LA CROSSE

WILLIAM KEHR STABBED SEVERAL TIMES.

Daughter of a Wealthy Hawkeye, Ia., Stockman, Disappears From Monroe With a Male Friend—Popular Portage Priest Passes Away Suddenly—News From Badgerdom.

La Crosse, Wis., Aug. 1.—Last night John Miller, it is claimed, cut William Kehr ten times with a big pocket knife having a 4-inch blade. It took two doctors from 11:30 to 1 o'clock to sew up and dress Kehr's wounds, which were in his abdomen, chest, shoulders and face. Miller, with three companions, provoked a quarrel, it is said, with Kehr, and Kehr knocked Miller down, after which the cutting began. Kehr thinks all his assailants used pocket knives, but the police doubt this, though, the latter say, all took part in the affray. All were arrested. Miller was a soldier in the Third Wisconsin regiment, and brought the knife from Porto Rico. Kehr was a fireman on the steamer Lion. All had been drinking. Kehr's condition is considered serious.

Death of Father Cummane.

He then went to Oshkosh, remaining a year, and then to Chilton and from Chilton came to Portage. He was a man of wide learning and a magnetic pulpit orator.

PROPERTY OWNERS MET AGAIN

Committee Appointed to Appear Before Common Council Tomorrow Night.

A number of West Milwaukee street property owners met at Silas Hayner's office last evening to consider the matter of paving that street. William Henry Harrison Macdon was the chairman, and George G. Sutherland was the secretary. Mr. Sutherland outlined the authority of the council and the rights of the realty owners. Mayor Richardson was present, by invitation. He said that it was the intention to treat all property owners alike, and that if the realty owners on Milwaukee street bore the whole expense of the pavement, the same rule would be followed in the future.

Some of the people present expressed a doubt as to whether or not this could be done, and David Jeffris said that he thought the property owners would have as much consideration shown them as was shown in The Gazette's editorial headed "Put Down a Pavement."

George G. Sutherland, Stanley B. Smith, and W. H. Tallman were appointed a committee to present resolutions to the council at tomorrow evening's meeting.

Cowes, Aug. 1.—[Special]—The race for the Queen's cup was sailed here today. It was won by the Emperor of Germany's Meteor, formerly the Thistle. The Prince of Wales's Britannia sailed a poor race, finishing eleven minutes after the winner.

Today's result shows that the Shamrock, which beat the Britannia in about the same time, is practically equal to the Thistle.

Steamer Brazilia From Hamburg Fast in the Lower Bay Near New York.

New York, Aug. 1.—[Special]—The German steamer Brazilia from Hamburg is aground in the lower bay. The vessel will probably be floated without danger.

Infatigable Sign.

The picnic for the benefit of the United Charities came out $6 in debt; the festival for the new church bell came within $8 of covering the expense of getting it up; the hot supper for foreign missions was $40 behind; the ladies' bazaar for the benefit of the soldiers' graves lost big money, and the only thing that was a great success was the subscription list for a monument to the memory of a late spring poet—the subscribers declaring that he should have been placed under a monument after he struck the first note. And now by all of the above signs we are reasonably sure that spring is in our midst to stay, and that the corn planting can go forward as usual, without fear and in hope of a glorious harvest.—Atlanta Constitution.

Photographing in Colors.

A new method of making photographs which shows the colors of nature has been invented by Prof. R. W. Wood of the University of Wisconsin. The pictures are made on a transparent film deposited on glass and containing very fine lines, about 2,000 to the inch, on the average, and so not visible to the unaided eye. No colors are visible until the pictures are placed in a special viewing apparatus, consisting of a convex lens on a light frame. The lens and the lines on the plate, acting together, form overlapping spectra which affect the eye in such a manner that the natural hues appear in the picture in their proper places and intensities. The picture can also be projected in color upon a screen.

A Curious and Useful Plant.

The maguay plant, which is cultivated extensively in Mexico, can be put to many different uses. The Indians make a rough sort of cloth, working with it as with cotton or any other textile plant. Out of its fiber they make many different sort of stuffs, and all these without the aid of modern appliances. Besides, from the juice of the maguay is made a sort of liquor, called mescal, much liked by the natives, and said to be very efficacious in certain maladies. From the same maguay juice the well-known pulque is made, which is to the native what beer is to the German, and cheap red wine to the French laborer. A splendid quality of paper is also made from the fiber of this plant.

EFFECTS OF BELGIAN ELECTORAL LAW BILL

MINISTRY AND PRESIDENT, J. VAN DERPEREBOOM, QUIT.

The Result of a Crisis Caused By Government's Attempt to Pass Measure—An Effort to Gerrymander the Country in Favor of Catholics—War Narrowly Averted.

Brussels, August 1.—[Special]—The Belgian ministry and President J. Van Derperboom, have resigned. The fall of the ministry is the result of a crisis caused by the government's attempt to pass the electoral law bill, which is a bill to gerrymander the country in favor of the Catholics. This was a month ago and the attempt very nearly ended in a revolution.

May Form New Cabinet

Brussels, August 1.—[Special]—King Leopold is now conferring with ex-Premier De Smet, regarding the formation of a new cabinet.

Noble Game-Fish.

According to anglers who have tried conclusions with him, the Cape salmon as a game fish is a formidable rival to the famed American tarpon. It belongs to the herring family, and is called "King of the Herrings." In weight it runs from four to twelve pounds, is very shy and tender-mouthed, and when hooked rushes away at race-horse speed, leaping into the air, flashing like a sword in the sunlight, and generally escapes, greatly to the chagrin of the disciple of Sir Isaac. He who can hook, play and land a ten-pound Cape salmon must be a past master in the art.

Towns Among Graves.

London Mail: Not far from Ning-pang-po, a town in Northern China, there is a large village composed exclusively of graves. The place is, as a matter of fact, a deserted burial-ground, and has been taken possession of by a numerous colony of beggars, thieves and outcasts of all descriptions, who eat, sleep, and make merry, in spite of their eerie environment, which—such is the influence of familiarity—never seems to enter their otherwise superstitious minds. There are several of these "towns among the tombs" in various parts of the Celestial empire.

How Glass Affects Bacteria.

The extreme delicacy of many scientific processes is indicated by the report of Dr. Martin Ficker, a German investigator, that the bacteria are affected favorably or otherwise by the character of the glass containing the water in which they are suspended. Marked differences in the behavior of cholera germs were noted, according to the kind of glass composing the vessels used. The degree of alkalinity imparted by the glass to the water is believed to be an important factor in these experiments.

World's Consumption of Beer.

An official document recently issued sets forth some remarkable figures regarding the quantity of beer consumed throughout the world. The annual quantity consumed, it is stated, amounts to 17,700,000,000 litres or quarts. Of this amount 5,000,000,000 quarts are made in Germany; in Great Britain and Ireland, 4,790,000,000; in the United States, 3,200,000,000; and Austria consumes yearly 1,050,000,000 quarts of beer; France, 840,000,000; and all the Russians only 400,000,000 quarts.

Lord Russell of Killowen.

Lord Russell of Killowen owes his marvelous advancement as much to his indomitable pluck as to his great ability. Born nearly sixty-seven years ago in Ireland, he was called to the bar at the age of 27, and after nearly abandoning the law in despair, reached in 1886 the dignity of attorney general, and, what was more gratifying still, an income of 30,000 pounds a year.

Forecasting Disease.

In a recent lecture on electricity Prof. Elihu Thomson related how Boston physicians had been able, with an X-ray tube, to detect the presence of the microbes of pneumonia in the lungs before any symptoms of that disease were felt by the patient, or were even perceptible by ordinary pathological examinations.

Prospects Damaged.

A young woman whose leg was broken in an accident on the Orleans railroad in France has received $8,000 damages on the ground that "her value from the matrimonial standpoint has been deteriorated" through the damages done her.

PHONE CONNECTION FOR CLINTON TOWN

CITIZENS CAN SOON TALK WITH OUTSIDE WORLD.

Case of Eagan vs. Wilcox Being Tried Before Justice Cronkite Today—Defendant Sues For Wages—W. O. Wright Sues George Irish For Fees—Personal Mention.

Clinton, Aug. 1.—Clinton will soon have telephone communication with Janesville and other cities on the circuit. The Wisconsin Telephone company have distributed material to this point, and the poles are nearly all up between here and Shoptown. The location of the office will probably be at C. L. Tuttle's livery stable, as access to the office can be had at all hours of the night. The line will be continued to Sharon. The case of Eagan vs. Wilcox came to trial before Justice Cronkite today. The defendant is A. B. Wilcox, of Smithton. Eagan worked for Wilcox, and sues for his wages, amounting to about twenty-six dollars. Wilcox offered to settle by paying ten dollars, claiming that Eagan broke a wagon, for which he deducted the balance of Eagan's wages. W. A. Mayhew appeared for the plaintiff and William Jones for the defendant. The case of Irish vs. Mix comes up for a hearing in the justice's court on Tuesday. T. Mix, the defendant employed George Irish as agent to sell his farm located in Bradford. Irish had nearly bargained the farm to W. O. Wright when Mix concluded he would not sell, paying Irish a nominal sum for his trouble and taking a receipt. Directly afterwards Mix sold the farm to Wright and now Irish sues for his full fees as agent. The kissing bug has not as yet made its appearance in Clinton but the buffalo moth is here and the much despised insects strikes terror to the heart of every careful housekeeper. The house cleaners have been on the jump from house to house the past week rearing up carpets and searching diligently for the creature that devours upholstery and carpets without discrimination. The ladies do nothing but talk and fret over the matter. The bug is described as being about an inch long and the color of an old buffalo robe. A peculiarity of the little fellow, and one in which he resembles a locomotive engine is the ease with which he moves backward as well as forward without turning around. As scientists claim that the moth has 4061 distinct muscles in its body the remarkable power of the little animal is readily accounted for. Friends of T. J. Maguire who formerly was foreman of a printing office here were pained to learn of his death which took place last week. Mr. Maguire was killed by the cars at Savannah, Ill., dying a few hours after the accident. Mrs. Al Baldwin is in Racine caring for a sick daughter. A. D. Parker and wife of Shoptown worshipped here Sunday. Miss Maud Ames is in Chicago, where she will spend a few weeks. James Selkirk and family have removed to Pease court, just east of Main street about three blocks north of his harness shop. J. R. Helmer's sisters, Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Becker, returned to New York state on Monday of this week. C. P. Hinman and wife will go to Beloit to live. Mr. Hinman having engaged with the Eclipse Co. Mrs. Hinman will have charge of a boarding club of twenty students. Miss Weaver has returned from her Madison visit. Miss Lillian Soper and Miss Terneure visited in Chicago last week. Word from Chicago says that J. R. Conley's operation was successful and the patient is doing well. Mrs. J. R. Sayers left for Denver, Sunday evening. Her husband's business makes it necessary for him to remain in that city for a couple of months. H. N. Cronkite left for Madison.

Home testimony at the back of every box of Doan's Kidney Pills.
Can you believe your neighbors?
Read this statement made by a citizen:

Mr. E. T. Fish, of 855 Racine St., proprietor of the Fish Drug Line, says: "When I was twenty years of age I fell, injured my back, and ever since that I was troubled more or less with a dull, aching pain across the loins. It never laid me up but it was often painful and annoying. Of late years I have gone to a physician every six months and had myself thoroughly examined under the impression that there might be something wrong with my kidneys. The diagnosis always resulting in the physician claiming these organs were sound, but as the pains existed when I happened to notice in our Janesville papers that Doan's Kidney Pills were guaranteed to cure just such troubles, I procured a box at the Janesville Drug Co.'s store, and took them. Doan's Kidney Pills are a good preparation. My back has not ached since I used them. I have heard others speak very complimentary of them and if I did not know their merit and required such a medicine I would consider it a favor if some one suggested their use to me. For this reason I endorse them."

The Fred Scott farm has been rented to Gilbert Larson. The Colonel Inman farm, which Mr. Larson leaves will be occupied by Harry Van Gilder, of Tiffany. Miss Lenora Northrop came out from Milwaukee to spend Sunday with her parents. Arthur Harn, who had the misfortune to break his leg last spring, is able to ride out but it is doubtful if he ever entirely recovers the use of his limb, which continues badly swollen.

MILTON DEFEATS THE DARIEN NINE

EXCITING GAME OF BALL
PLAYED YESTERDAY.

College Town Nine Victorious in a Score of 7 to 6—Adkins and Mc Masters, of the Locals, Were the "Whole Thing" in the Opposing Forces—News of a Personal Nature.

THE GAZETTE AGENCY
W. W. CLARK, Manager.
(Milton, Wis., Aug. 1, 1899.)

The most exciting game of ball played here in many a day occurred Monday afternoon between the home team and a combination of players from Chicago, Beloit, Janesville and Darien, masquerading as the Darien ball club. They brought with them to play a country amateur nine, the celebrated, much-vaunted battery, Adkins and Mc Masters, of the Janesville Y. M. C. A. nine, and also Blakley, of that professional team. Only four of the visitors were from Darien, and they were wise in getting a lot of hired men, as they would have been shut out, Adkins and Mc Masters scoring all the runs made by Darien, only one of the residents of that burg getting as far as first base. The Waterloo for the wonderful Adkins occurred in the last half of the eighth inning, Milton not having got farther than third base up to that time. The home team then sized up his royal nine and pounded him for seven runs, winning the game then and there by a score of 7 to 6. It was a sad blow to the beefy collegian to have a lot of country boys hammer out seven runs and ruin his chances with Connie Mack for an engagement with the Brewers. Connie has no use for that sort of box artists. Darien is not out much money for their hired men, we judge, as they only paid Blakely one cart wheel for his services and he was the only man in their team, outside of the battery, who made a hit. Aikin, who was in the box for Milton, put up the best game we have ever seen him play, striking out fifteen men.

Batteries, Milton, Aikin and Place; Darien, Adkins and Mc Masters. Earned runs, Milton, 7; Darien, 5. Errors, Milton 6, Darien 5. Base hits, Milton 11, Darien 12. Bases on balls, by Aikin 3. Umpire, Clem W. Crumb. Mrs. S. I. Spaulding and daughter, Mary C., returned from their eastern trip, Sunday.

Rev. A. C. Browning, of Kirksville, Mo., occupied the pulpit at the M. E. church Sunday morning. Misses Moore and Markl returned to their Chicago homes today.

The "Jayville" club, of Hardacrabbe, wish it distinctly understood that they have not hired Adkins and Mc Masters, of the Y. M. C. A. team, to play the points in their game with the Otter Creek "Rustlers." They don't propose to fool away a dollar and a half in any such bunco game as that.

Martin Clarke is able to be about town with the aid of crutches, but it will be some time before he can bear his weight on his ankle.

Miss Elsie Woolley is visiting Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Burdick at Palmyra. Miss Isabella R. Walker heard W. J. Bryan at the Lake Monona assembly, Monday.

Miss Inez Wilbur, with J. M. Bostwick & Sons, Janesville, is enjoying a two weeks' vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Wilbur in this village.

W. P. Smith has sold eighty acres of his farm in Harmony to W. H. Gray at $60 per acre.

Clarkson Heritage spent Sunday and Monday at the Lake Monona assembly. George R. Ross and family went into camp at Seavey's, Lake Geneva, Sunday, for an outing of three weeks.

Miss Mary Post, of Santa Clara, California, a niece of E. A. Holmes, of Chicago, a cousin, have been entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Holmes this week.

James Anderson, Jr., of Clinton, visited his Milton relatives, this week.

S. S. Osborn, of Stevens Point, is in town to visit friends.

The long needed "precipitation of dew" arrived this morning.

Emerald Grove.

Emerald Grove, Aug. 1.—Jennie Kirkpatrick spent last week with her sister, Beth, at Mr. E. Wetmore's. Mrs. Marion Kelly returned to Stoughton, Saturday. Mrs. Nina King visited the Monona assembly last week. Ida McArthur returned from Janesville, Wednesday. Mr. Pratt and daughter, Lizzie, of Stoughton, were visitors at R. Lillburn's several days the past week. Willie Mair has returned to his Janesville home and his brother, Johnnie, is now visiting at Mr. Kirkpatrick's. Our village looked quite deserted, Sabbath, with no church services and the majority at the assembly. Two weeks ago last Saturday a handbag was lost on the road between Emerald Grove and Janesville. If any one has found the same, will they please leave at the village store. Oscar Hanson and wife, of Rockford, Ill., were recent visitors here. Among those who spent the Sabbath at Delavan assembly were Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McArthur, Mr. and Mrs. H. Hanson, Roy and May Barless, Henrietta and Willie Aikin and B. Irish and family. Judge Jaenes passed through here Monday morning on his way to Evansville from Delavan. Rev. White and Mr. D. Hyderman, of Waterloo, Wis., made many calls on old friends Thursday. They had attended the golden wedding of Rev. Potter, of Allen Grove.

Indian Ford.

Indian Ford, Aug. 1.—The ice cream social held at W. Scofield's last Wednesday evening was well attended. The proceeds amounted to $11. Miss Cassie Scofield is visiting friends at Stoughton. Mrs. Ada Goodrich and children are visiting at J. I. Chamberlain's. Mr. and Mrs. Clark Hutson left Saturday for their new home in Adams county. The best wishes of their friends at and around the Ford go with them. Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Howell called on friends at the Ford, Sunday. The creamery has a brand new coat of paint, which improves its appearance. Mr. McCann and family, of Janesville, visited at Pete McCann's, Wednesday. Miss Ivy Tracey, of South Fulton, and Miss Clara Pound, of the town of Porter, visited Leo Green, Tuesday. Mrs. Elijah Hyatt visited friends in Edgerton, Saturday. Emma Zebell, Wilma and Silas Hurd have been spending a couple of weeks with Mrs. Gurloch in Adams county. Miss Maud Lackner and Mrs. Essie Hutson visited Mrs. Riley Call at Milton Junction last Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Lou Dickerson and Mrs. Jens Lund of Edgerton, were fishing at the Ford, Saturday.

Alton.

Alton, August 1.—Alton Camp 2192 M. W. A. will meet in regular session next Saturday evening and all members should endeavor to be present as plans will be perfected for the holding of the annual picnic. The social committee of the Baptist Y. P. S. C. E. are planning for an ice cream social to be given soon. Repairs on the mill dam have progressed far enough to warrant a resumption of grinding, a fact that farmers in this vicinity will appreciate. The Ladies' Aid society will meet at the Baptist church next Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Henry A. Waterman has sold the north lot of her village property here to Edward Hammel. Mrs. J. B. Humphrey and daughters May and Ruth are spending a couple of weeks at Delavan Lake. The regular covenant and business meeting of the Baptist church will be held next Thursday evening. Harry E. McCrea left for Eveleth, Minn., last Tuesday, after a four weeks' sojourn at his home here.

Cainville.

Cainville, Aug. 1.—Mrs. Everett Townsend spent Sunday at Mr. Townsend's parental home. Wilbur Andrew is nursing a lame arm, the result of taking a header from his wheel. There were no services at the A. C. church Sunday, on account of so many being absent from town. Quite a number drove to Oregon town, to attend services. Mrs. P. Barrett will visit W. Haskin's family the present week. Nito Brown started for Fort Atkinson Sunday morning. He will make the trip on his wheel. Magnolia has again come out ahead in a ball

GUARDING AGAINST PLAGUE.

Elaborate Precautions to Prevent Spread of Yellow Fever.

ONE MORE DEATH REPORTED.

The Victim an Inmate of the Soldiers' Home at Hampton, Va. — Southern Cities Satisfied That the Disease Will Be Controlled.

Newport News, Va., Aug. 1.—After a day of intense excitement over the yellow fever outbreak at the soldiers' home, Newport rests with a feeling of comparative security. It is felt that no loophole has been left by which the scourge may find its way to this city.

The latest report from the soldiers' home gives the total number of cases as thirty-three, an increase of three. There was one death Monday. The universal hope now is that the disease will be confined within the home limits and the authorities at the institution express confidence that this will be done.

Hundreds of persons have left the city on account of the disease, but their departure is regarded with indifference, rather than as a judicious precaution, by the great majority who stay at home.

There are positively no cases of fever outside of the soldiers' home, notwithstanding a report that the disease had broken out in Phoebus, a small place outside of the home.

The officials of the war department are much concerned because of the garri-son at Fort Monroe, which is only three or four miles from Hampton. There are about 300 soldiers at that post. There is also a large colony of the families of army and navy officers in and about the fort. The secretary of war and several of his bureau chiefs held a conference, and the first result was an order directing the removal of the troops. The order is directed to Gen. Merritt. It is thought likely he will send the troops to some point in New England.

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 1.—Fear of the spread of yellow fever to this city and thence abroad has been largely allayed by the absolute quarantine against the three peninsula towns adjacent to the infected spot. There is no fear that the fever will invade this city.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 1.—There is considerable excitement and much anxiety felt here over the yellow-fever situation at Hampton, seventy-five miles east of this city. The state board of health has established a general quarantine against the three towns named, and every precaution is being taken to prevent the spread of the disease.

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 1.—Dr. C. Hampton Jones, health commissioner of this city, announced that a rigid quarantine had been declared against the towns of Newport News, Hampton and Old Point Comfort, Va., on account of the yellow fever. Dr. Jones does not fear that yellow fever will reach Baltimore.

Total Number of Deaths Is Seven.

Washington, Aug. 1.—The latest official advices show a total of thirty-seven cases and seven deaths from yellow fever at the soldiers' home at Hampton, Va. One new case occurred at the home Monday. Dr. Wasdin of the marine hospital service is in charge of affairs at Hampton and is working in co-operation with the local boards of health.

Causes Anxiety in Washington.

Washington, Aug. 1.—The appearance of yellow fever at the Hampton soldiers' home is causing considerable excitement here. Precautions are being taken by the city authorities to prevent the introduction of the disease here either by steamboat or rail, and success is looked for.

CALLED OFF THE TROOPS.

Strike at Cleveland Broken—Scenes of Violence Past.

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 1.—As an indication that the backbone of the Big Consolidated strike in this city is broken, so far as scenes of violence are concerned, a large portion of the troops doing strike duty were relieved Monday. Today other military companies will be relieved from duty and in this manner the troops will be gradually withdrawn until only the police will be left to guard railroad property and prevent violence.

In conformance with a demand on the part of the public, school buildings will be depopulated of troops first. This demand was occasioned by the fact that the troops destroyed school property and committed nuisances that raised a storm of criticism.

Ex-Senator Blackburn Is Ill.

Versailles, Ky., Aug. 1.—Ex-Senator J. C. S. Blackburn has been very ill with congestion of the kidneys at his home here since Sunday morning. His family is much alarmed over his condition and telegraphed for Dr. Scott of Louisville to consult with local physicians.

Indians Kill Stock and Game.

Helena, Mont., Aug. 1.—The Canadian Cree Indians who have been infesting this section since late in the winter are killing game and stock, and neither the state authorities nor the federal government seems able to suppress them.

Indorse Anti-Trust Movement.

Austin, Texas, Aug. 1.—Attorney-General T. S. Smith has received letters from Attorney-General G. W. Pickle of Tennessee, J. A. Vannorsdel of Wyoming and A. C. Bishop of Utah, indorsing the anti-trust movement.

Plans of Iowa Republicans.

Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 1.—A large number of delegates to Wednesday's republican state convention are already in town and the prospects are that the convention will be one of the largest ever held. Aside from the senatorial question, the nomination for judge of the Supreme court is attracting most attention. The friends of Judge Robinson claim that he has a comfortable lead and will win. For governor, Leslie M. Shaw will receive a second nomination by acclamation. James C. Milliman will be renominated for lieutenant-governor. Edward A. Dawson for railroad commissioner, and Richard C. Barrett for superintendent of public instruction.

Currency Bill Not Completed.

Narragansett Pier, R. I., Aug. 1.—The subcommittee of the senate finance committee has again left Narragansett for Manhattan Beach and this time it is not likely to return, having taken all its documents. Senator Platt of Connecticut again has been called away from the session by the illness of his son. Senator Aldrich has gone to Warwick, R. I., but will speedily join the other members. The draft of the bill for currency reform, while progressing, is still far from completion. Senator Platt of New York will again confer with the three active members at Manhattan Beach.

Examine the new oil cloth on the kitchen floor; its color and gloss are being destroyed and you may see where a cake of common soap fresh from the hot water in the scrubbing bucket has been laid on it for a moment, the free alkali having eaten an impression of the cake into the bright colors.

A more careful examination will show small "pin holes" here and there where the alkali has cut through the surface to soak into and gradually weaken the whole floor covering.

This is what cheap soaps do. Use Ivory Soap, it will not injure.

AN INFORMAL GOOD ROADS GATHERING

BUSINESS MEN MEET AT MYERS
HOUSE AGAIN SOON.

Meeting Addressed By Miss Rella C. Haber, of the State and Inter-State Good Roads and Public Improvement Association—Many Present and Much Interest Manifested.

The indications are that a convention in the interest of good roads will be held in this city some time in October. It all depends on the interest taken in the movement by the people of Rock county. If it is held here it will be the means of bringing to Janesville several thousand people to hear the noted speakers and see the expert road builders demonstrate the good work.

The people have been ready for it for some time but the movement received its first real impetus this morning when Miss Rella C. Haber, of the State and Inter-State Good Roads and Public Improvement Association, addressed an informal meeting of representative businessmen of the city at the parlors of the Myers House.

Enthusiastic on Subject.

Miss Haber is an enthusiast on the subject and is thoroughly familiar with the work. Her remarks were listened to with interest and it was decided to hold a public meeting in the council chamber some time next week, when the matter will be discussed at length and arrangements made for the convention.

Miss Haber went to Wausau this morning where she will conduct a meeting tonight and will advise Mayor Richardson soon, as to the exact date next week that she can be here.

If we get the convention, which now seems certain, all that it will cost will be about $500 to defray expenses. This will include a practical demonstration by Mr. E. G. Harrison, the expert of the government at Washington, of the best method of constructing a road.

To Interest Farmers.

The city will furnish the material for a strip to be put in somewhere on the outskirts of the city where it can be seen by the farmers as well as by the citizens. The services of Brig.-Gen. Roy Stone, head of the office of Road Inquiry and of Mr. Harrison, the expert, have been given over by the government to this work and they will be here at the convention. The postoffice and agricultural departments are also interested and it is possible that Postmaster General Smith and Secretary of Agriculture Wilson will attend also. It will be necessary if a successful convention is held here, to organize at once, and it is urgently requested that the citizens attend the meeting next week. "The road is a creation of man and a type of civilized society", and Rock County must not be behind in the campaign for the best of them.

Kaiser Upsets Another Old Custom.

The typewriter has beaten down an ancient custom in Germany, that of the writing of all urgent reports by hand. Emperor William has discovered that the reading of reports in the ordinary German handwriting is a somewhat laborious process, the formation of the characters being a trial for the eyes. He accordingly issued an order that all urgent reports are to be typewritten which has astonished the government officials, because it has hitherto been regarded as impolite to typewrite these documents.

Vastness of the British Empire.

The British empire is now a territory of 11,500,000 square miles, or 13,000,000 if we include Egypt and the Sudan, and in this territory there is a population of about 407,000,000, which would be increased to over 420,000,000 if Egypt and the Sudan were included—a population about one-fourth of the whole population of the earth. Of the population, again, about 50,000,000 are of English speech and race.

REAMS IN TROUBLE BECAUSE OF PIPE

JANESVILLE MAN TAKEN TO WAUKESHA TODAY.

Had a Row At That City With Wilkey J. Denver, and the Result Is a Warrant Charging Assault With Deadly Weapon—Janesville Lads Run Away.

Fred Reams went to Waukesha today in charge of a deputy sheriff, the charge against him being assault with a deadly weapon, his arrest being the result of a row at that city in which Reams, Mrs. Reams, Wilkey J. Denver, and a sister of Mrs. Reams figured.

Reams has been working in Janesville while his wife has been residing at Waukesha. Reams, it is said, has been sending her money on the supposition that she was paying for a home. Denver, whose name, with that of Mrs. Reams, is familiar to Janesville people—and the police—is also in Waukesha where he has been running a detective agency. Reams went to Waukesha Sunday to see his wife, and complications followed, terminating in a scuffle on the street. It is said that Denver was stoning Reams, when Reams pulled his pipe from his pocket and pointed it at Denver, telling him that he would shoot. Denver then took to his heels, and later Reams came back to Janesville.

It now appears that a warrant was sworn out for his arrest yesterday and a deputy sheriff came for him today. Chief Hogan got Reams for the officer, and they left for Waukesha this morning.

Young Men Go Wrong.

Four Janesville young men are under arrest at Belvidere, Ill., on the charge of stealing and robbing a slot machine at the Belvidere depot. The boys are about fourteen years old and ran away from home a day or two ago. The stolen machine was one that delivered gum and candy on the placing of a penny in the slot. It was taken from the depot and later broken open and rifled.

Chief Hogan was notified of the facts in the case this morning, but at this writing it is not known what steps will be taken in the matter.

The Great Hungarian Painter.

The wife of the great Hungarian painter, Munkacsy, visits him often in the madhouse, and takes him out for a drive. Sometimes he recognizes her. In the grounds of the asylum he can be seen leaning on two attendants as he walks about, his once imposing figure bent and emaciated, his snow white hair and beard unkempt—a mere wreck of the man who, a few years ago, was considered one of the handsomest public characters in Paris.

You Hear the Celebrated Musicians At Home.

I was at work in my little den at The Evening Appeal office. The paper had just gone to press, but I was hurrying to finish before going home a "special" for the next day's issue.

Through my open door I could see the dingy desks of the so-called editorial room, most of them vacated now, and from the farthest corner came the drone of a proofreader. Glancing at this familiar scene, I stopped my writing a moment as my eyes rested on his copy holder. Instead of the rough young hobbled boy who usually filled that place, there sat the most young girl-like of young girls, making a sunbeam in the grimy place. She had soft light brown hair drawn smoothly back into the dearest of little knots. She turned toward me the neatest of little profiles, and she devoted herself to her copy with the gentlest bend of her small head. Just as I was idly recalling the fact that old Martin, the proofreader, had once confided to me his desire to get this position for a daughter of his, Bentley, the "star" reporter of The Appeal, came striding in and toward me.

"Spare me a minute from the tariff?" he questioned, standing in my doorway, pushing his silk hat to the back of his head with one hand and resting the other, which held a lighted cigar, against the door frame.

When I had declared my willingness to lay aside for a time those political labors with which it pleased Mr. Bentley to imagine me always occupied, he took off his hat and laid it with his cigar on the steam heater outside, came in and seated himself astride my vacant chair and for a moment stared at me in silence over the back of it.

When he spoke, he said: "I'm going to ask a favor of you, Miss Addington, and I wish by a large majority that it was you going to ask one of me. Oh, yes, I know, you're a mighty nice, pleasant, accommodating little girl—that's aside from my wanting something out of you just now—but you don't have it any too soft down here, anyhow, and now I'm going to ask you—I'm ashamed of myself. But—well, let me open with the curtain music, and work up to the last farewell by degrees. The beginning is—'he stopped, waited an instant, got up and turned his chair around, set down properly and took up his sentence again as if he had never dropped it—"that I'm in love with and want to marry that little mimic pimini, white faced girl of old Martin's out there"—then relaxing a little from the uncommon seriousness with which this was said—"and I'd give $100 to be held, without arousing suspicion, to get hold of that seat that Calvert has there by her. That ain't sentiment, I would I were a glove upon that hand kind of business; it's pure science. That desk is the strategic key to the whole campaign. I'm not in with Calvert, we've been hating each other too long for me to be able to work up an intimacy with him now just previous to asking him to give me his desk, and it would be too thin, anyhow. There is no way to get that desk—here comes the climax"—Bentley stopped and looked at me deprecatingly, appealingly. I was amused to see that he could command such an expression—"unless"—he stopped again, cowered and drew a long breath in burlesque of his own discomfort and his resolution, and, as he would have said, took the plunge—"you'd be so angel white as to let him come in here. He's been wanting to do that this long time, not altogether because of his secret desire to be near you, but he thinks it would be nice to be in here away from the lower orders, and convenient to the encyclopedia that he gets his little pieces out of."

The Appeal's limited library was in the room I occupied. Expression of my willingness to share my seclusion with Mr. Calvert did not still Bentley's desire further to explain and justify himself. "You see," he went on, "I've got the campaign all planned out, though I can't explain it in a word. I'm perfectly willing to explain it, however. I'm even willing to admit that it would be a pleasure to me to do so. I'm too old and tough to talk about this kind of thing to a man, but there's a sensible diminution of a dangerous pressure in letting off to you a little."

I shall utterly fail in giving any idea of Bentley unless I am able to convey an impression of the personal unconsciousness that characterized his conversation. He expressed himself in the way that was easiest to him—that is to say, as much as possible by established formulas intelligently applied, sometimes slang, sometimes quotations that became slang in his mouth—but, though he often felt the humor of his own ideas, his verbal clothing of them rarely enough attracted his attention.

He turned a look at once grave and quizzical through the door and upon the copy holder.

"Nothing's going to change me about wanting that little piece of propriety out there but getting her," he remarked.

"No, not altogether quite so sudden as you might think," he said when I expressed my interest in the speed with which he had discovered his intentions. "She was here last month for a week, when you were off doing the woman's convention. I haven't ever got her out of my head since. It was sudden enough, and I'm hit hard enough. I'm going to put my system to work now for all it's worth." He turned back to me, hitched his chair half around, so that the distracting picture in the other room was out of his range of vision, and went on:

"You've heard that there is a right and a wrong way of doing everything. Well, my system is the one right way of going courting—when you're courting a woman, that is. I'm sorry it's not fitted to be more use to you. I've got faith in it, or I'd be"—He shook his head slowly in a manner significant of a most uncertain frame of mind. "You can see with half an eye," he continued in a moment, "that that little thing there hasn't been put through my mill that would make her think—put her on the lookout to get married. She isn't that kind anyhow. That's why—one why—I want her, and of course that's the very reason I ain't likely to get her. This world's run that way."

Bentley gazed far out of the window, his upright red hair looking even more astonished than usual as the countenance it surmounted took on an uncommonly grim expression. Then, without moving his head, he brought his eyes back to mine, looking at me sideways with a return of something of his usual twinkle, a twinkle in eclipse, and declared:

"It's the system I'm asking you to pay tribute to. I'm free to confess, Miss Addington—here a faint, incredible shade of embarrassment seemed to cross Bentley's countenance—"that I never truly loved before, but yet"—Bentley lifted and knitted his brows as he scratched his head with one finger and looked silently at me.

I was constrained to say, "Why, yes, Mr. Bentley, but yet?"

"Egg-sactly," he answered heartily. "You are the sort of person I like to talk to. Well, now, my system is applicable in dealing with any young lady whose good will you wish to gain—whose good will you wish to gain."

Bentley repeated, brightening with enjoyment of the felicity of this phrase. "I've had it in shape pretty nearly ever since my coming out sociable at Cranberry Center. Not with unvarying success. I don't say that, but it's done its part, it's done it well. It isn't as if a professional beauty were using it exactly. I know that. I have faith in it. I always have had—that is, but now the sight of that white mouse out there takes all the starch out of me. Curious, isn't it, though I don't suppose?"

"I think, Mr. Bentley," I interrupted, "that you are talking against time to put off telling me what your system is."

"Get there every time, don't you?" said Bentley, admiringly. Then fixing a queer look upon me, in which again appeared that amazing suggestion of shyness, he said slowly:

"Hang around and say nothing. Hang around industriously"—pause—"and say nothing, till more or less urgently invited to. You press the button and we do the rest. These directions are capable of 50 different adjustments to suit the most complicated case." Bentley was speaking these last sentences half abstractedly and watching my face anxiously.

As the mystic significance of this formula penetrated my brain I was moved to mirth—mirth that was not lessened by the fact that I was visited by a sudden illuminated vision of the system's possible workings in practice—a vision which at once convinced me of its value.

I wiped my eyes and gave my hand to Bentley, assuring him that I believed he was master of a great secret.

"You do really?" he broke forth eagerly and seriously. "Say, Miss Addington, you wouldn't give a fellow in my fix now, would you? That's the only opening of the campaign, but that's the great critical period, don't you think? That's the merit of the system. It attacks the opposing sex (opposing sex—not bad, is it?) through their curiosity. See? And they quit being so all fired opposing early. Generally you can count on 'em to become helpful pretty soon—helpful in some degree. Then's the time for the next move. I'm not much at explaining these psychological phenomena, but the system's all right. This conviction is arrived at through a priori reasoning and is confirmed by subsequent observation."

Bentley stood up as he delivered this last sentence and looked down upon me with a pleasant combination of sad appeal and humorous patronage. He was quoting from my maiden editorial, a document that had filled him with mysterious mirth.

I began to arrange my papers for departure, assuring him in the meanwhile of my good will toward his enterprise. That seemed the right word for it.

He apologized for taking so much of my time and yet further explained his needs and plans—as, for instance, his "scheme" for letting Calvert know that the way was clear for him to change his desk while he was standing feeling for a match and I was putting on my hat and coat.

"You see," he said finally, barring my way a moment at the open door, "it is hopeless for me to try to hang around in Hoboken. That's where old Martin lives. I don't say I'm sorry.

Anything but Hoboken. But there it is. It is perfectly clear that, however I might walk in the letter, I'd blow the whole spirit of the system the minute I stepped my foot into the parental flat. It's too late to do the Damon and Pythias act with old Martin. I'm forced to abuse your generosity. Thank you, thank you! It's been a boon to talk to you. It has indeed. I'll work the racket with Calvert a little slow. May be a day or two before I get it around to him that the coast is clear. Then I'll have to wait upon occasion for a good excuse to jump down there and take his place. If the office gets on to me, there's no telling what'll be to pay. Good day, good day! I'd jump at the chance to help you get married."

Bentley picked up his hat and his cigar, put the one on the back of his head and the other in his mouth, just as he gave me what was in spirit a courteous, grateful little nod of farewell, and went on:

Old Martin's little girl still bent her pretty head studiously over her copy without a hairbreadth's variation of attitude.

Calvert had just come in and seated himself in scowling introspective preoccupation at his desk.

That was the last I saw of the office for three months. On the way home, through the untimely movement of a car, I sprained my ankle, and for a weary while was confined to the house.

In a few days, however, I began work again, writing as I lay on a sofa and depending on messenger boys and visits of mingled business and condolence from other members of the staff to keep me in touch with the office.

I had been at home perhaps a month when one day Mr. Maloney, a gentleman who had filled by turns many different positions in The Appeal office, each, as a rule, being less important than the last, was ushered in. The joy of gossip lighted up his bleary blue eyes.

"And how are you, Miss Addington?" he began. He had a charming touch of brogue. "And indeed it's enough to make the old one himself sorry for you to see what a good time you get out of the worst of occasions. That is a bit of a paradox, you are saying, and so is every other true thing that ever was remarked in this topsy turvy world, and you are the one that's got the philosophical head on your shoulders to find that out long ago without waiting for an observant old blind mole like me to tell you. Yes, I'm an illustration—allow me." Maloney shakily stooped to pick up my pen. "I can serve as an illustration when you write your celebrated treatise on the paradoxical. And now don't interrupt me for the space of a minute. You're a sad chatterbox, Miss Addington."

He stopped and laid an unmanicured forefinger against his grizzled temple. "I'm preparing the way to a graceful transition. I would be telling you something that is for your amusement. I am an observant old mole, I was saying, and now I can't be giving you one particle of useful information as to whether or no the boss is going to sell the paper out to the Republicans next week nor as to what will become of you and me if he does, though I dare say there are other blind moles that have discovered all that, but I'm about to tell you that that big brute Bentley is in love with that old proofreader's little girl, and none in the office knows it but me and him, and it's ten to one I know it best! Yes, sure, I thought you'd be grateful to me for a little diversion like that. It's not every day you can see or even hear what a brass monkey's like when he's in love. Its experience much more resembles that of a white man than you would ever imagine, and that's the truth. No, he's not trying, as he would say himself—worse luck to him—he's not just trying to mash her; he's in love, I'm telling you, and his feelings are not dissimilar to those depicted by Tom Moore and other poets that the hulking ignoramus never heard of, and there is the paradoxical for you. Me bald spot was bigger than a trade dollar before I could have believed such a contradiction possible, so think what an inexpressible surprise it must be to him, that has no more power of ratiocination than me blackthorn there. I have been industriously gathering the evidence for days, till me conviction was complete, before I'd come to tell you."

"Well, now, the first I noticed was the way he went white and red when she came to speak to him about his copy one day. It fills me with rage to think of that; it does indeed. To think of him having the additional impudence to exhibit a capacity for changing color like a girl!"

Maloney staid an hour and I am sure missed an assignment, telling me with infinite relish of detail all the ins and outs of Bentley's maneuvers.

"He used to write exceptionally clear copy, you know," said he. "He has no more education than me pet cat, but he can write like a grocer's clerk, and he used to do it. I've edited his copy for all he makes such big money. When old Sheffield was managing, he used to call on me to help him out when he was incapacitated with drink. He said—but it's no matter what he said; his betters have said more. But I've edited Bentley's copy when it was clear as print, and now, if you'll believe me, it looks little better than your own, begging your pardon. That makes business now and again with the proofreader, you understand, and somehow he's been pouncing things till it seems as if Martin read nearly all his stuff, but I've not found out how he manages that." Maloney added the last sentence in a tone of apologetic regret.

"Does the little girl notice all this, do you think?" I asked.

"Indeed and I wish you were down there to see yourself. How can I tell? The little white stiles ones like that—the old one himself can make out nothing about them. And Bentley's sly, wonderfully, all around. I don't understand him, though. How should ever an Irishman comprehend the way of the likes of him with his brass and his slyness? Why doesn't he go at it like a man and display to all the world that he's in love up to his eyes and he's proud of it? That's what a woman likes, be she old or be she young."

Overweight as I was with Bentley's secret, I was tempted to edge upon it by discussing this point, and I said that undoubtedly a woman was apt to like that kind of tribute, but I was not sure that it always followed that it made her like the man equally.

"And if he can give her what she likes, oughtn't he to be satisfied, I say, and if she does not like him so ardently isn't there the less chance that he'll marry her, to the sorrow of both of 'em?"

I told Maloney that he made my head ache, and he went away, pledging me to secrecy about Bentley. Nevertheless I was not wholly surprised when the next visitor from the office quoted Maloney as authority for the news that Mr. Bentley "was making—that is, he was paying attention, not exactly paying attention, but Mr. Maloney thought he was going to pay attention to that Miss Martin."

This visitor was the managing editor's typewriter, an elderly young woman, not bad looking, but with a constrained manner, grayish hair and a deep lying desire for human intercourse that should be labeled intellectual, or, in her own phrase, to be sociable and improve herself with literary people. Literary people being, in her opinion, any who earned a living by the use or abuse of the written symbols of language.

"Mr. Maloney says that Mr. Bentley is—that he cares about her," she said tentatively, sitting uncomfortably on the edge of her chair.

I conquered the inevitable throb of resentment that I felt at the discovery, faintly expected though it was, that Maloney was just as confidential with the typewriter as with me. As I had felt myself rarely gracious in appreciating Maloney's out at elbows charm and had credited him with a becoming sense of my kindness, this required an instant's communion with my higher self, and then I was rewarded by a delighted perception of how utterly like Maloney it was to lapse into intimate conversation with any petticoated object within his orbit. The appeal that these storied garments would always make to him was now re-enforced, too, by that false sense of masculine dignity which makes men slow to gossip of familiar personalities with one another. Even Maloney felt constrained for a time to give his really interesting and curious news only to the patronized sex, though, to do the staff of The Appeal justice, the time soon came when the artificial ice was broken and Bentley's hopes, fears and prospects seemed to occupy them night and day, to the manifest gain in color, vivacity and value of their conversation.

Bentley had not been to see me since my accident, though he had sent me a bottle of champagne. I am sure I don't know how Bentley's sympathy ever found vent on occasions when a gift of champagne could not express it. Perhaps such occasions never arose. Soon after the typewriter's call I got a letter from him. He said:

"Have thought about elevating up to your maiden bow to see how you are, but I hear, anyhow, every day, and judging by the way old Maloney blows about cheating your fevered brow, I conclude you can stand. Then I've got that girl on the brain so bad that I'm no good. If I saw you, I'd talk about nothing else. I'm working the system for all it's worth. There's nothing else for me to do. I'll send you a bulletin semi-monthly. I lose so much sleep about the thing myself I feel as if the suspense were holding you back too."

I gave him my buttonhole bouquet day before yesterday. I've come down to dressing like a regular cane sucker. She put it in a glass of water. Then I never let on I knew she was alive for 36 hours. Today I broke out in a fresh place and a shiver had to have a glass of beer when the men got same as I. Then I was coming things too close together, but I was nearly laid up with the strain of not looking at her for so long, and that typewriter girl—the old one—was here, and I gave her a drink too. You see, this is all according to the system intellectually interpreted, the principle of the core of the system being to keep yourself before the public and not show your hand. That white rabbit did the unconscious act as if he'd been born before the footlights. She's a tough one. It must be put on; she must have her little attention turned my way some, don't you think? I've been keeping this thing up steady, but I'm afraid I'm losing my fine touch, and she not breathe yet. It makes my head swim, Miss Addington."

I guess you're putting up a thanksgiving prayer by this time because I have been keeping away from you. All right, put up another while you're about it, on account of the fact that I'm going to stay away. And I'll make my other bulletins shorter. So there's another item.

If you'd think something I could do for you, it would be the best assignment I'll get this month. I'm in just as bad a fix as to obligations as if you were being bored by Calvert every day. You'll have it all the worse in the end. By the time you get back he'll believe he owns that room, and he'll only let you in as a thundering favor."

LATE NEWS BY TELEGRAPH.

MRS KATE C. SPRAGUE DIES, AGAINST THE UNITED STATES.

Once Leader of Society in National Capital Passes Away.

Washington, Aug. 1.—Mrs. Kate Chase Sprague, wife of a former governor of Rhode Island, and the daughter of the late Salmon P. Chase, chief justice of the United States Supreme court, died at her homestead, Edgewood, in Washington's suburbs, early Monday morning. She was 59 years old. For three months she had been suffering from a complication of liver and kidney troubles, but had consented to medical treatment only ten days ago. At her deathbed were her three daughters—Miss Kattie Sprague, who lived with her mother; Miss Portia Sprague of Narragansett Pier, and Mrs. Donaldson of Brooklyn, N. Y. The remains will probably be interred at Columbus, Ohio, her father's old home.

Mrs. Sprague was the daughter of Chief Justice Chase and wife of a former senator from Rhode Island. She was in many respects one of the most remarkable women ever known to Washington society. In the days of her prime there was no disputing her leadership, and she could make or unmake social aspirants with an invitation or a snub. Public men often predicted before the downfall of Senator Sprague that his wife would some day make him president.

But disaster came to the fortunes of her husband and family troubles resulted in Mrs. Sprague securing a divorce, after which she retired to Edgewood, the country home of her father. There she continued to be a social favorite, though the friendship of Roscoe Conkling caused much unpleasant talk, as did the friendliness of a number of other public men. She had three children—one son and two daughters, the eldest of the latter, Ethel Chase Sprague, going on the stage and for some time was a member of Richard Mansfield's company.

Financial misfortune again overtook Mrs. Sprague, and but for friends paying the mortgage on the home her father had left her she would have been penniless. Altogether her life was a sad one, filled with many blights and disappointments, though there were many bright spots.

Blaze at a Camp Meeting.

Indianapolis, Aug. 1.—A serious fire occurred at the Acton camp meeting grounds east of here on Monday. Five cottages were destroyed and the fire was prevented from spreading by the razing of the adjoining buildings. With the cottages pulled down, eight were wrecked. Men, women and children were forced to run from the cottages within reach of the fire in their night clothes. The entire population became panic stricken, and for fifteen minutes the greatest confusion prevailed. Everybody got out in safety, but many left behind all their wearing apparel except their night robes. The fire will not interfere with the arrangements for the meeting.

BASEBALL REPORT.

Games Played Yesterday in the Two Leading Leagues.

The Chicago team sunk yesterday within two games of the second division. The Cincinnati Reds, who are close behind the Orphans, beat out Brooklyn in the last two innings. Baltimore dropped to its old tie with St. Louis by losing to Pittsburgh. Louisville, which is now fully entered on its late-season period of high-class ball-playing, put a little more distance between itself and New York by downing that club. Boston and St. Louis were prevented by rain from playing.

SIX THRASHERS ARE KILLED.

Boiler Explosion on a Michigan Farm Causes Death and Injury.

White Cloud, Mich., Aug. 1.—Meager details of a thrashing-machine boiler explosion have reached here from Big Prairie township, six miles from here in the eastern part of the county. The explosion killed six of the thrashers and severely injured two others. The dead:

CHARLES HAIGHT. ALPHA HAIGHT. CHARLES CRABTREE. GEORGE OVERLY. CECIL PRIEST. RAYMOND HOWE. The injured: Oscar Evans, leg broken. George Haught.

Dewey's Alleged Interview.

Vienna, Aug. 1.—The Vienna Neue Freie Presse, in an article vehemently condemning Admiral Dewey's alleged utterances regarding war between the United States and Germany, says that it is inconceivable that the admiral should have been so tactless, and yet it is not surprising that he should refuse to disclaim the alleged interview.

A dispatch in the Fremdenblatt says that Admiral Dewey, when asked as to that very point, replied that on principle he never either denied or confirmed newspaper assertions regarding him.

Flood Victims Are Gainers.

New York, Aug. 1.—The first bale of the new crop of Texas cotton grown at Sinton, Patricia county, and shipped by Gov. Sayers, was sold at public auction in front of the cotton exchange Monday for the benefit of the sufferers by the floods in Texas. It brought $2,000. The bale was redonated to the exchange and will be sent to the Boston exchange to be auctioned off in like manner. The bale will then be shipped to some other point and will realize a good round sum for the sufferers. The market price of the bale is $35.

Yaquis Are Killing Settlers.

Ortiz, Mexico, Aug. 1.—News has reached here that several Americans and Mexicans have been killed in towns in the Yaqui river valley east and southeast of this station by the Yaqui Indians. Gen. Torres, commander of the First military zone, is in the field with the Twelfth regiment, and has ordered troops from the various gendarmeria in his district. No information is obtainable as to the number of Indians under arms.

Venezuela to Be Heard.

Paris, Aug. 1.—At Monday's session of the Anglo-Venezuelan boundary arbitration commission Mallet-Prevost continued his presentation of the Venezuelan case. Baron Russell of Killowen, lord chief justice of England, suggested the advisability of Mallet-Prevost curtailing his argument, but Melville W. Fuller, chief justice of the United States Supreme court, intervened in favor of the speaker.

No Conference with Laurier.

Hotel Champlain, Clinton County, N. Y., Aug. 1.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier is expected to visit Hotel Champlain for couple of weeks after the Canadian parliament adjourns, which will probably be in about one week. If he should come here it is barely possible that he and the president may talk over the boundary question in an informal way, but that any formal conference will be held on that subject is denied.

Canada with Outlanders.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 1.—There was an outburst of loyalty in the Canadian commons when the government introduced a resolution of sympathy with the cause of the outlanders in the Transvaal. The resolution was unanimously adopted by the house, and at the conclusion of the speeches of the premier and the leader of the opposition the members rose to their feet and sang the national anthem.

Seize Many Shipments of Arms.

Hongkong, Aug. 1.—Six different consignments of arms have been seized by the authorities here during the last week. The shipments all consisted of rifles and ammunition, and it is believed they were to be sent to the Philippines and forwarded to Aguinaldo's army. The arms consist of rifles of the latest models and a large quantity of smokeless powder.

BASEBALL REPORT.

Games Played Yesterday in the Two Leading Leagues.

The Chicago team sunk yesterday within two games of the second division. The Cincinnati Reds, who are close behind the Orphans, beat out Brooklyn in the last two innings. Baltimore dropped to its old tie with St. Louis by losing to Pittsburgh. Louisville, which is now fully entered on its late-season period of high-class ball-playing, put a little more distance between itself and New York by downing that club. Boston and St. Louis were prevented by rain from playing.

WE ARE NOT ALL OF AMERICA.

German Press Declares Europeans Will Insist Upon Some Rights.

Bremen, Aug. 1.—The German press hardly takes solid comfort from the express declaration of the American delegation to the peace conference that nothing in the arbitration convention must be construed as a relinquishment of the traditional attitude of the United States toward purely American questions. "Some day Europeans may be forced to interfere in American affairs," says the Leipziger Tageblatt. "We may accept the maxim, 'America for the Americans,' but under no circumstances can we accept an extension of its scope that shall make it read, 'America for the North Americans.'"

"The exporting countries of Europe cannot permit the North Americans to monopolize the American continent. A pan-American customs union means the death blow of the European export trade."

Enjoyment of life depends largely upon your liver.

Rocky Mountain Tea will make a new one. Great medicine. Makes healthy babies. Smith's pharmacy, kodak agents.

Dewey Leaves Trieste Today.

Trieste, Aug. 1.—Admiral Dewey will leave here this afternoon en route for Rome. The Olympia will probably touch at Naples, Leghorn, Genoa, Toulon and Gibraltar.

Nation's Finances for July.

Washington, Aug. 1.—The monthly statement of the government receipts and expenditures shows a deficit for July of about $8,518,000, which is slightly in excess of the estimate made by the officials a month ago.

Yaquis Are Killing Settlers.

Ortiz, Mexico, Aug. 1.—News has reached here that several Americans and Mexicans have been killed in towns in the Yaqui river valley east and southeast of this station by the Yaqui Indians. Gen. Sampson Sues for Prize Money.

Washington, Aug. 1.—Rear Admiral William T. Sampson today filed in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia a suit in his own behalf and also in behalf of the officers and enlisted men of the ships of the North Atlantic station who took part in the naval engagement off Santiago and the subsequent capture, for prize money. The suit is similar to that recently entered by Admiral Dewey in the same court.

STORIES OF CHILDREN.

Teacher—When little George Washington told the truth about cutting down the cherry tree his father forgave him. Now, Johnny, what lesson does this teach us?

Johnny—That we can often avoid trouble by burying the hatchet.

One warm evening in the spring it was raining gently and little 4-year-old Margie was somehow reminded of the fireflies she had seen the summer before. "Oh, mamma!" she questioned eagerly, "Isn't it most time for the hopper shines to come?"

"Willie," said a mother to her 4-year-old hopeful, "you must not interrupt me when I am talking to the ladies. Wait until we get through, then you can talk." "But, mamma," replied the little fellow, "by the time you get through I'll forget all my talk."

Hostess (to 5-year-old guest)—Does your father say grace before dinner, Margie?

Margie—I don't know. What's grace?

Hostess—Why, saying grace is returning thanks for what we have to eat.

Margie—My pa doesn't have to. He always pays cash for everything we get.

Style in the West.

There is something wrong when western Kansas papers print menus for yacht luncheons, styles for bathing suits, etc. Few Kansas people ever saw a yacht, and we all know there is no bathing in the state except in a tub by the kitchen fire on Saturday night.—Atchison Globe.

Suffering Women

I used Dr. TALLERDAY'S FEMALE TONIC before my child was born. Had been doctoring for five months with no results, with one of the best doctors in Beloit. I used three bottles of Tonic and was sick only about two hours. It is invaluable for women going to be confined. My baby is well and healthy and I feel better than I have for years. I cannot say enough about the medicine.

Dr. Tallerdar's Female Tonic goes right to the seat of the trouble in all cases of uterine affections—Leucorrhoea, prolapsus, dysmenstruation, Prolapse and Painful Menstruation and taken for some time before confinement—makes child-birth easy. The best tonic for nursing mothers and at change of life, and greatest of Spring Medicines.

For Sale by all Druggists at $1.00 a Bottle.
